The material contained on the website or distributed by International Association of Registered Financial Consultants (IARFC®) is for informational purposes only and does not constitute a complete description of its services. No information contained on this website and/or written material constitutes tax, legal, insurance or investment advice.

The IARFC makes no claim as to accuracy and does not guarantee or endorse any product(s) or service(s) that may be advertised or featured. Links to third-party sites do not imply an endorsement between IARFC and any third-party with whom the IARFC is associated, or authorized to use any trademark, trade name, logo, or copyrighted materials belonging to the third-party entity. Entry to any linked third-party sites is at the consumer's own risk. The IARFC is a dues paying member association with memberships offered in all US States, its territories, and internationally. Members are routinely verified to determine they are properly licensed in their respective state and/or territory and if they have had disciplinary problems with regulators or received serious complaints from investors.

Though the IARFC conducts due diligence on its members, it cannot be held responsible for misrepresentations by its members regarding licensure, ethical disclosure and disciplinary actions that have not been verified. Inquiries can be made of state securities regulators or the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority (FINRA) to provide information for any licensed agent. Because state securities regulators may provide more comprehensive information than FINRA, especially when it comes to investor complaints, it's advisable to check with the state securities regulators first. Contact information for state securities regulators is found on the North American Securities Administrators Association website (NASAA).
